1 PROBLEM DEFINITION

The need to learn knowledge, access scientific and technical information has become popular when the internet develops strongly today. Although learning and updating knowledge is quick and convenient, it is sometimes difficult to find the necessary information in a large amount of information, especially in the field of medicine, information and opinions. For researchers, doctors' experiences are exchanged together to better understand, as well as update new knowledge, new information is essential. The need for a forum web doctor to create a place to exchange and exchange information is necessary

2 CUSTOMER REQUIREMENT SPECIFICATION (CRS)

2.1 Client: Doctors web forum

Business/Project Objective: Our client is a doctor who is one of the famous Cardiac specialists in the country. As he is one of the famous specialists in the country, he generally used to visit some places for operating some patients with some critical cardiac conditions. Also he used to get invitations from various colleges in the country for attending and giving the seminars, also he runs a college, which is one of the famous Medical colleges in the country.

Actually, he wants an online application such as a discussion forum for the doctors in the world, so that if any one is having any queries (for the junior doctors, etc.) or to discuss some new cases in different fields. He wants this application to be developed as this can bridge the gap between the various doctors available in the world and can know each other through this portal. Also, in case of any emergencies or for some special cases one can go through the application and search for the various doctors based on the specialization and the location which ever is suitable so that so many people s lives can be saved.

0		2.jpg	1953695959		7/3/2022 5:20:37 AM	Hospital human resources are the core to help the hospital develop successfully and sustainably. Doctor William Osler - recognized as the first person to bring medical students out of the lecture hall to experiment at the bedside once shared: "A good doctor can cure all diseases, but a great doctor can cure all diseases, can cure every patient." This famous statement of a Canadian doctor is more than enough for us to realize that the importance of hospital human resources is completely real. In our country, not only the public hospital brands in particular and the medical brand in general, even many corporate brands are also going in the wrong direction in the process of spreading the positive inspiration that the brand image brings. Most are focusing on service quality, product quality or coverage of product images as well as sales locations.	doctor1	Human resource development Hospital applying Maslow's hierarchy of needs
